“The Future of Social Work & Mental Health in the 21st Century”

The future of social work in the 21st century requires us to review and adjust to the upcoming changes and needs of our clients and our profession.

Such adjustments in our practice are made to assist the community as they deal with the new world of technology.

As Social Workers we need to evaluate our professional practice today and be prepared to deal with social work in a new media directed environment in the future.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

1. Learn what the future holds for Social Work and the role of technology in practice.
2. Explore society’s plans to meet burgeoning mental health demands (peer counselors, QMHP’s, etc.).
3. Examine the ways social work educators, practitioners, and regulators plan to meet future demands of social work profession.
4. Preview the 2018 General Assembly session and review pending changes in social work law.
